Living in the USA	Protect the Palms	Save the Savanna	Rescue the Rainforest	Waves of Change
Dec. 30, 2019	Dec. 31, 2019	Jan. 2, 2020	Jan. 3, 2020	Jan. 6, 2020
Have you heard about animals living in the U.S. that have been rescued from extinction? As we meet some amazing Zoo animals, you'll hear about the incredible stories of how people worked to protect species in danger of disappearing.	Across the world, animals need safe homes and space to play. On this day, campers will explore Asia as they learn about orangutans, elephants, and many other creatures that need our help protecting the wild spaces where they live.	Whether with appropriate pets at home or animals at the Zoo, interacting with animals is always special. Discover how people in Africa can live in harmony with wildlife such as lions and cheetahs. Join us and discover why savannas are worth saving!	Animals astonish us in seemingly endless ways and that is certainly true with those that call South America home. Explore the Zoo as you learn about keeping monkeys, frogs, and many other creatures safe. Swing to the rescue of these awesome animals.	70% of the Earth's surface is covered by water, but how much do we really know about those environments? Even the smallest camper can make big waves as they dive in to the ways that they can help penguins, otters, turtles and many other creatures!
